Overview:

Ar. Sharad Kabra taught the students about healthcare through his presentation. A central aspect of his presentation revolved around an in-depth exploration of his own work and projects in healthcare architecture. Through a series of real-world case studies and practical examples, he showcased how his innovative designs have effectively addressed the unique challenges and requirements presented by various healthcare facilities. This personalized insight allowed the students to glean valuable lessons and inspiration, offering a tangible connection between theory and practice in healthcare architecture.
