Some people believe that college life entails living it up to the fullest and having a wild time. While it was very different for me. After wasting three years (or more) in various sectors after intermediate, it was time to focus on my profession and study hard for a better future.

Well, before my emotions overwhelm me and prevent me from being able to explain myself later, allow me to thank BIT Noida and all the faculties for offering everything. From the carefully chosen curriculum to the instructional approach, it was just exceptional since I could observe positive outcomes following the course.

I first studied there for my BBA in Bachelor Economics from 2010 to 2013 and my MBA in Finance from 2013 to 2015. I am incredibly grateful to the institute for everything.

Since I studied science up until my 12th grade year, choosing to major in commerce was a difficult choice. Nevertheless, I'm glad I made it, and the teachers deserve praise for making everything seem so simple that I now regret my choice to finish schooling in science.

By God's grace and after many long days and restless nights of effort, I am now employed by Gartner as a Senior Research Specialist in the TMT (Technology, Media, and Telecom) sector.

I got the chance to work with BalckRock, Moodys, and Evalueserve before I joined Gartner.

I would be eager to support my juniors in any way I can and would love to reconnect with all the alumni.
